

The Honey Ant Song

Submitted by
Liddy Paasch

Honey Ants

Honey Ants go a wump a wump wump

A wump a wump wump, A wump a wump wump!

Honey Ants go a wump a wump wump

A wump

Their butts are big and round!

Honey Ants live deep underground (3X)

Honey Ants live deep underground

More information about Honey Ants:

The Honey Ant Song comes from Australia, although you can find honey ants in Central and South America, New Zealand, and other places with hot, desert climates. They live deep underground but come to the surface to feed on the nectar of desert plants. They have enormous bottoms that go “wumba-wumba-wumba” when they walk, and they never make a sound. They are very sweet, and people dig deep into the ground to taste these little living larders. Make up actions to go with this fun song. You can listen to it on the web page.

Let's go for a dig!

Honey Ants are very sweet (3x)

Honey Ants are very sweet

They're so good to eat.

Honey Ants are very qui-et (3x)

Honey Ants are very qui-et

They don't make a sound. SHHHHHH!

